Senate. Washington, December 22.—Edmunds objected as there was no quorum but Morgan's resolution was taken up declaring the president of the Senate not constitutionally authorized to count the electoral votes so as to determine what votes shall be received and counted and what rejected.

The senate in executive session refused to reconsider yesterday's vote confirming Woods.

The electoral count resolutions was not acted on.

After the session a number of private bills were passed.

House.

Washington, Dec. 22.—After prayer by the chaplain the speaker as is usual, directed the clerk to read the journal of yesterday, whereupon Bowman rose a question of privilege relative to the disgraceful proceedings which had occurred in the House yesterday.

The speaker said the chair would prefer that the gentleman should wait till the journal should have been read.

Bowman said it was on that point that he wished the speaker to make a rule that the members should not be held to answer nor subject to censure of the House nor of anything said in the debate if any further debate or business should intervene; he desired to know whether the reading of the journal could be construed as such intervening business as would shut off further proceedings by the House for the gross violation of its dignity.

The speaker said that the reading of the journal would take from the House one of its privileges.

Immediately after the reading of the journal, McLane asked the question referring to the dignity of the House and calling attention to the scene of disorder which took place on the floor yesterday and which he characterized as offensive, derogatory and discreditable to the House as a parliamentary body. He called upon both offending members before any other business was entered on to relieve themselves of that offense by ample apology.

No response having been made by either of the members immediately concerned Bowman rose to present what seemed to be a substitute. He spoke of the scene of yesterday as an insult to the House, to congress and to the country. There was not a man present he said, who did not yesterday hang his head in shame as a personal disgrace and all over the country and the world men were reading this morning of the pot house brawl, and gambling house quarrel and fight with fists that was only prevented by force, that took place yesterday.

Harris of Virginia, suggested that both members were now willing to make an apology and if so they ought to have an opportunity to be heard at once.

Haskell suggested that other members had been guilty of conduct equally deserving of censure.

McLane insisted on his question of privilege and offered a resolution requiring the two members to apologize to the House. In the course of McLane's remarks he recognized that the most of the members present yesterday were partly responsible for the scene of yesterday.

To that remark, F. Wood of New York took exception and said that he had interfered in this discussion yesterday and endeavored to confine it to the funding bill. He also characterized the scene as the most shameful exhibition that had ever taken place on the floor.

McLane without concluding his remarks said he would yield to the gentleman from Iowa, (Weaver,) if he was now ready to make an apology to the House.

Haskell objected to that proceeding and declared in his opinion the House should rather make an apology to the country than having suffered adjustment to have taken place yesterday without action, and not try to cast off its own shoulders the oblique that belonged there and not single out members as scape goats for its own sins.

Bowman again took the floor and quoted the remarks of F. Wood as to the character of yesterday's proceeding, and adding "if two of the funding members had been boys fighting on the side walk they would have spent the night in the Tombs and be brought before the police court in the morning." He said the House should now take action and that would be a warning; he would therefore offer a resolution of expulsion as punishment which would only commensurate with the offense.

After further discussion and the reading of an extract from the congressional record covering the question Bowman's resolution was read, declaring that for the gross breach of the privileges, rules and decorum of the House that the two members be expelled.

Brown moved as a substitute that a committee of three be appointed to report without delay what proceedings should be taken by the House.

Reagan and Converse indicated that there were some slight errors in the congressional record.

Blount suggested that McLane's resolution be modified so that the two members be "permitted" and not "required" to make an apology. He understood that they both wished to do so.

The resolution by the consent of McLane was modified accordingly.

Harris of Virginia, raised the point of order and argued that the precise words for which the members are held to answer must be set out before they could be expelled.

In regard to the printed record, Bowman said that the point was pointless as the offense was actions not words.

DESPERADO'S DEATH.

Tom O'Phallier One of "the Kid's" Party Killed.

Tom O'Phallier one of the hardest character of Billy "the Kid's" gang was killed last Sunday and Tom Pickett, another one of the band is supposed to have been mortally wounded. The pair had been sent out from Las Portales by "the Kid" to get supplies at Sumner and Pat Garrett and Frank Stewart with some of their boys suddenly came upon them. Garrett was the first to see them and ordered them to surrender but upon their refusing he got the drop on O'Phallier, killing him instantly. He was none too quick, for the desperado had his pistol cocked and nearly out of the scabbard when he got his death call. Tom Pickett was shot but managed to get away, a heavy fog prevailing, although it is supposed from the blood left on his trail that he could not long survive. The party is on his track and will undoubtedly capture him. They are as determined as ever and will follow up any and all of the outlaw if they leave a sign for them to go by. They have ridden on to Portales and will surely hunt down the outlaws.

Tom O'Phallier was one of the most desperate men in the whole outfit and was a bad man generally. He was a Texan, about twenty-two years old, five feet, eight inches tall, and weighed about 175 pounds. He was born in the southwest run part of Texas on the Rio Grande, and is said to have committed depredations and various crimes in that state before he went to the Pecos country. He was one of the men who were in the burning building in Lincoln with Billy "the Kid" when they were surrounded by troops during the Lincoln county war. His escape was almost as miraculous as that of his late chief, dashing through the lines of colored troops, the balls whistling about him, and the bullets cutting into shreds the handkerchief which he had about his neck.

Tom Pickett is known to many of our citizens having formerly been a policeman in Las Vegas. He has been with the band since July last.

—Frank G. Meyer, formerly with Wm. Shupp, but lately engaged in business at the White Oaks arrived in town yesterday. He will remain here for some time.

—Mariano Perez and wife arrived on yesterday's train. They will spend some time visiting friends in this city.

—Bell, Craig & Co. show enterprise and sell goods. Their stock of Christmas candies is certainly magnificent.

—Prof. Robertson has returned from a trip south where he has been examining mines and prospects.

—Hon. M. Gallegos of Mora is in the city.

—Suspended.

St. Louis, Dec. 22.—The suspension of Buckingham & Co. was announced at noon today.

Oklahoma Colonists.

Caldwell, Kansas, December 22. Another blizzard today disturbed the wouldbe colonists of the Indian Territory. They have resolved to go into camp and await the early spring or the favorable action of congress. Every man who leaves for home to spend the holidays signs a pledge to return after Christmas and bring recruits.

St. Louis, Dec. 22.—The suspension of Buckingham & Co. was announced at noon today.
